Trestle Board January 2012

From the Worshipful Master

Fraternal greetings all,

I hope that the recent inclement weather finds you well. The thrust of Masonic Light for this issue is related to the basics of Lodge practices and respect for the ritual. As I have traveled and observed over the last few months, I find that as a group, District 9 performs the ritual very well and we have been complemented in our work.

As officers in our Lodge, and some more than once, we have been doing a great job of bringing young people into our fraternity and it is our duty to make sure they understand not only the words, but the meaning of the ritual; not just opening and closing, but all of the work we do.

In the readings I have found, “The first step in learning any ritual is to know what you are saying,” you must first seek to understand what is being said, once you have, “It’s mostly a matter of knowing how to do it, plus a lot of practice.” Once we understand the words and have dedicated our time to sufficient practice, there is the matter of how to comport yourself in Lodge.

By way of getting to the basics, I will quote the Lodge Officers Handbook as a guide to efficient and courteous procedure. “It is the duty and responsibility of those in charge to teach candidates in such a manner that they will have a genuine feeling that they are proud to be a Mason”. At this point I must address a couple of issues about which I feel strongly:

The first is levity in Lodge. In my opinion, ribald and lively discussion and cajoling in moderation is acceptable after Lodge is open. Such atmosphere keeps things interesting and fun. While opening and closing Lodge, however, we must adhere to and respect the ritual. In my mind, this means we must not engage in laughter or joking if a Brother has missed a line or a part in the ritual, but rather offer support later with a kind word. It is acceptable to remind a Brother in a friendly manner of the proper words or action, but let us make sure that we do so in a manner that that preserves the solemnity of the occasion.

The second, I know may ruffle some feathers. I recognize that we now live in the “Information Age” where technology is at our fingertips. To me, it seems appropriate that we enter information into our calendars and review information for upcoming presentations or proposals on our handheld devices during the meeting after Lodge is opened. Knowledge is power. I must however draw the line at using handheld devices during Opening and Closing. This undermines the sanctity of our timeless ritual. The same is true for open books. Either we know the work or we do not. Here comes that “P” word again: practice, practice, practice.

We must first endeavor perfection in ourselves...and then pass it on.

Let us make this Lodge, and our District, the best that it can be!

For our review, I have asked our Webmaster to post a great article on Masonic Etiquette on our web site. It can be found at: www.langley218.com.
